

EDUC-W 505 COLLEGE TEACHING AND LEARNING

SUMMER II
JUNE 24-AUGUST 5

This online class is for people who:

- Aspire—or are preparing—to teach in a higher education setting
- Need to obtain and document preparation experiences
- Are faculty who have just begun to teach in higher education
- Are faculty who wish to enrich their teaching knowledge and skills

For specific questions, please contact Sarah Zahl at sabrando@iupui.edu.

Course covers a comprehensive range of topics:

- Course design
- Lecturing
- Leading discussion
- Student feedback and assessment
- Supervising projects and dissertations
- Clinical teaching
- Resources for students
- Continuing teaching development

The course includes many interactive exercises, self-checks, and resources. It is rich in video and graphic enhancement. Students may take the course on their own time schedule, showing evidence of performance at intervals and on a final portfolio, or in a cohort-based program that will include interchanges with other students and the instructor.

NOTE: Students enrolled in the HESA program should take C750: College Pedagogy.

Practical strategies for engaging college level learners!

Instructor: Sarah Zahl
Higher Education and Student Affairs
Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

INDIANA UNIVERSITY

IUPUI